Mr. Butler,

This ruling without an actual face-to-face hearing does not seem just.

Considering that the public can enter into PSC proceedings and be expected to act as lawyers thoroughly versed in regulations without benefit of training sets the bar, not too high, but too ambiguously. Clearly, though many of Mr. Wocjicki's questions lie outside the purview of the docket, a good many of the questions are pertinent, and he could be required to pare them to fit within the purview of the hearing.

Despite that Mr. Joe is not easy to understand or has difficulties keeping to such time limits as are traditionally held, as an engineer he has brought and can bring to bear information that can enlighten and provide insight.

Finally, standing should be granted to anyone to whom the City of Columbia provides drinking water. All of us are stakeholders.

Respectfully,

Pamela Greenlaw
 Intervenor
